

THE PEOPLES' COLUMN

I happened to pick up a weekly magazine a few days ago and I noticed that within less than 200 pages of both reading matter and advertisements could be found radio ads that, at the advertising rates of the magazine, must have aggregated in the neighborhood of $150,000 or $200,000. Think what this must amount to. In just one issue—representing one week—of one periodical, there is nearly a quarter of a million dollars spent in advertising just one item of product—radio receiving sets and parts and accessories.

The radio is an invention of the past two decades and the improvements that have been made in the instruments are so great as to make this industry perhaps second only to automobiles.

Today the average farm home can have all the conveniences and all the up-to-date things that are found in the city homes. Think of sitting down in front of a little box, turning a few dials and listen to a grand opera singer at New York City—hearing her voice direct and getting each note just as it comes from a world-famous throat.

Then let those who say that "that is impossible" when somebody forecasts a future possibility.

S. E. Eberstadt Is the Principal Speaker for Lions

T. O. Walton, newly-elected president of the A. and M. College of Texas, will be given the full time following the luncheon hour of next Tuesday's noon meeting of the Bryan Lions Club, it was announced yesterday by J. B. Miller, chairman of the program committee.

The meeting on Tuesday noon of this week was a novel one in that each Lion brought his leading competitor to the meeting as his special guest. All were seated around the table and mingling socially and fraternally.

Following the singing of songs led by Brown, Stephens and Miller, Miss Margaret Zuber was introduced and sang a beautiful soprano solo, and responded to calls for an encore. Mrs. Eberstadt Jones announced the Parent-Teachers entertainment at the high school Friday night, after which each Lion presented introduced himself, gave his name, nickname, classification, and introduced his visitor.

Talk On Rural Work. Harry Edge gave a splendid classification talk on dry goods and said that his subject was divided into two parts, the first being the old type of store where emphasis was placed on the buying of goods to the best advantage and the newer type which stresses sales through window displays, advertising and personal contact.

Then Secretary S. E. Eberstadt was introduced as the speaker of the day and he talked on "Rural Community Development in Brazos County." After some humorous stories and a real tribute to the work the Lions Club is doing in this line, he launched into a discussion of the history of the different clubs in the county, the work that has been done to develop them and the wonderful changes that have been brought about in the different communities as a result of the organizations having been formed there. He paid some wonderful tributes to County Agent C. L. Beason as the man behind the gun in this work and stated that he, like others, was only an humble follower in the footsteps of Beason.

RETARD BASINS REGULATE IN TIMES OF FLOOD

At a conference in the Chamber of Commerce rooms in Bryan today, 40 members of the Brazos River Reclamation Association heard reports from E. F. Williams, State Reclamation Engineer, and Jno. A. Norris, chairman of the Board of Water Engineers, outlining the progress to date which has been made on the topographic and hydrographic surveys of the Brazos watershed. A map of the entire watershed was exhibited and shows locations of practicable reservoir sites which in the opinion of the engineers are ample for adequate harnessing of the flood waters of the stream as well as for storage of vast quantities of irrigation water.

STATE OFFICIALS HERE.
In his address, Mr. Williams mentioned measurements of the Brazos at Pitts Bridge west of Bryan today when the river is practically bank full and that approximately 10,000 second feet of water is now passing down stream. He also mentioned that four years of measurements of the stream at Rosenberg indicate an average discharge of approximately 8,000 second feet which if given the usual valuation as irrigation water is worth something like $250,000,000 per annum. Mr. Norris reported completion of enough topographic work to indicate the feasibility of harnessing the stream by use of combination irrigation reservoirs and retarding basins for regulation of the run-off so as to reduce the peak of overflows. He stressed (Continued on Page 4)

Jones Bridge Is Closed To Make Repairs

County Judge H. O. Ferguson, County Commissioners C. M. R. singer and J. M. Moore, accompanied by J. E. Brown, road supervisor, Geo. Foster and C. E. The piers are about two feet out of line at the top but the bases are said to be still in proper position. It will be necessary to remove the driftwood before the danger can be eliminated and the bridge again opened for traffic. By advice of County Judge Ferguson this work will not be done until the river, which is on a red rise and about half banks, has subsided.

UNUSUALLY LARGE CROWD AT PYTHIAN INITIATION AND ALSO ENTERTAINMENT TUESDAY NIGHT

With visitors present from Caldwell, Normangee and Navasota, as well as a few from other points, the attendance at the regular meeting of the K. of P. Lodge on Tuesday night was a record one with between 125 and 150 present, the visitors numbering about a third of the total. The rank of thirteen candidates, four from Brazos Lodge No. 64, the home lodge; eight from Bryan Lodge No. 476, the new K. of P. lodge in Bryan; and one from the Normangee Lodge No. 381. The rank was conferred by a Past Chancellor's degree team and those who took part were as follows: J. E. Gammon, Guy Boyett, C. W. Crawford, Robt. Armstrong, C. S. Beckwith, H. S. Locke, F. L. Henderson, Jno. W. Payne, L. B. Locke, J. T. Maloney, Frank McGee, W. B. Saunders, Ed Martin of Steele's Store, M. M. Erskine and J. B. Christian. It is thought that this is the first time that a degree team of Past Chancellors has conferred the rank of Knight, or any other rank in the Pythian order, and the novelty was sufficient to attract a great deal of interest.

Since there was much before the lodge for the evening, the regular order of business was dispensed with, following the opening of the lodge and the candidates were made ready for the work. The work was put on with an unusual degree of excellence and speed. It was beautiful and instructive to the candidates. All of the candidates had words of

QUESTION SETTLED.

We would like to ask for our own information, "How do you spell that myrtle bush?" Ever so often in the gist of the day's news we see it spelled "crape" and then quite as frequently "crepe". Which is correct? Who can tell?

—Bryan Eagle.

Good for Mrs. Rountree. She has found something to worry about instead of the same old worry, the poor crops in her part of the country. Doubtless she has had such a seige of hard-times talk, and been so engorged by her friends and neighbors who view with alarm the emaciated cotton fields of the Brazos bottom, she decided to find something of her very own to make trouble for herself. So she languishes under a doubt as to whether it should be spelled "crape myrtle" or "crepe myrtle". There being nobody to whom the State Press would send good cheer sooner than to Mrs. Rountree, he will take the present auspicious occasion to relieve her of her new worryment. The proper spelling, dear lady, is "crape myrtle". That is English. "Crepe" is French. So is creme, meaning cream. When the French write creme de la creme they mean cream of the cream. So when they write crepe de la crepe they mean crape of the crape. The only regret S. P. has is helping you out of this difficulty. Mrs. Rountree, is the fear that you will go back to crop pessimism again. It is so catching. But try not to. Certainly everybody needs one or two minor worries. A small worry stabilizes a person's mind, keeps it from exulting in the empyrean, which is an impractical distance above the earth. So, seeing that probably you need a slight but caustic subject for doubt, fear or misgiving, State Press suggests that you worry over his summer cold. He has a fierce one, and it worries him. Share his misery, dear lady!—State Press in the Dallas News.

DON'T LAG BEHIND

At the Chamber of Commerce banquet at Madisonville on last Tuesday night, a farmer from near Bedia, representing his community, was reporting on the progress of his community club, according to word brought back by J. E. Covey, who attended the meeting from Bryan. In explanation of the fact that there were a few members of his club which lead and pulled and a few which held back and lagged behind, the farmer told this most pertinent story: A few nights ago a few others and myself were out wild-cat hunting. It was not long before the dogs started a cat and took the trail all but one running at their best speed and the one sluggish animal running about 100 yards behind in a lazy manner. Now wild cats have wily ways and this one ran true to form, and this one, when closely pressed by the pack of dogs, squatted low on the ground and the dogs ran over him, the cat getting up and back-tracking as fast as he could go. He soon ran onto the laggard dog, and, having had his ire aroused, he proceeded to tear that poor dog all to pieces. Now the moral of this story is that if you don't want to get all mused up and perhaps lose your life and your future, you'd best stay up with the leaders in the procession—stand for the advancement of your community and your community's ideals.

SOWING TURNIPS

The man who neglects to plant his turnip patch right now is overlooking an opportunity. —Bryan Eagle.

The man who fails to plant turnips where the ground is damp enough to do so, is not only neglecting an opportunity but is failing to perform a well-defined duty he owes to his family, his community and his state. He should plant with a view of relieving the lack of turnip greens in localities less fortunate. He should listen to this pathetic appeal recently made by Jim Lowrey of the Honey Grove Signal: "And we fear there is no way to turnip green crop this fall. Misfortunes comes in armies, and not the least of this year's afflictions is the loss of the crop of turnip greens. The juice of the rutabaga top is the oil of joy that gladdens the inards of man and touches the rosetine of health into the face of humanity. Too bad that the king of the pot should be denied us this year, but possibly our loss will teach us forcibly the value of this great crop and we will sing its praises more. "We never miss the music till the sweet-voiced bird has flown."—Mineral Wells-Index.

"Frivolity is the last lingering form of freedom."—Chesterton.

WHAT IS THE FASCINATION?

W. W. Rankin, editor and owner of the Burleson County Ledger at Caldwell has sold the paper to H. G. Bishop of Dallas, and Mr. Bishop has taken charge. Mr. Rankin has been publisher of the Ledger for the past twenty-nine years and in relinquishing the paper he says: "I do so upon the advice of my physician who tells me that I must give up the hard task connected with the newspaper business". We wish for Mr. Rankin success in whatever field of endeavor he may enter and that he will soon be enjoying good health again. To Mr. Bishop we bid you welcome.

Yes, we will agree with our good friend Mr. Rankin, the getting out of a newspaper is a hard task, but who wants an easy one. The newspaper life to me is an ever interesting one, I love it, I glory in it and it is a constant source of enthusiasm and an inspiration. While it is the same old grind, day in and day out there is always new material to work with and there is a fascination about it that leads men and women to stay at their desks until their locks turn grey and their hands are no longer able to turn out legible copy. What is that provides the fascination? Who can tell. Perhaps it is the wonderful power of swaying the mind, and the actions and the thoughts of the public in general. Perhaps it is the power one can wield for good or for evil. Perhaps it is the prestige, perhaps it is the contact with the news before anyone else has had a chance to find it out. Perhaps—and more likely, it is because we deal with the greatest thing in the world "humanity" not just one man but with the mass of humanity. The study of human nature is the greatest study in the curriculum of the school of experience. Newspaper folks have to deal with it everyday and have to understand it.

ADVISE WELL GIVEN

The time has come when the successful farmer must read, keep up with the new things in the agricultural world, developments and betterments of methods of his own immediate neighborhood.

The farmer who is to succeed in his line of business as others men succeed in other lines of business can no more afford to get along without one or more good farm papers than he can get along with an old style plow or cultivator when something that will do more work and better work is available.

Regardless of whether it be farming or merchandising or manufacturing, the men who are in it must know they can if full measures of success is to be attained. The more information a person can get the better prepared he is to meet his problems.

Farming isn't what it used to be in the days of our fathers and grandfathers. We have farm problems, plant diseases and insect pests that were unheard of in their day. If we are to succeed we must farm on a present day basis instead of on the father or grandfather basis. If we don't keep up with the changes we won't last long in the farming business.—H. G. Hastings.

UP TO HOME MERCHANT

Franklin was besieged with a horde of catalogs from the mail order houses on Monday. It was necessary to make two loads by motor to transport the quantity from the station to the postoffice from one train and it looked like there were enough catalogs to place one in each and every home in the entire Franklin section. These mail order houses know it pays to advertise and this explains why they get so much business from this section that rightfully belongs to the home merchants. There is only one way to combat the mail order evil, and that is for the merchants to bind together in a determined drive to keep the business at home. This requires that each merchant keep a good stock of goods, sell them at a reasonable price and above all advertise! The successful merchant, regardless of his location, is the advertising merchant.—Franklin Texan.

WHY TAKE THE CHANCE?

Isn't it strange people will take a chance even at the risk of their own life. It is said that a passenger train, the longest one, passes a crossing in a few seconds and the slowest freight in about two minutes, yet there are speed maniacs who with the desire to beat the train will speed up their cars so as to slide over the tracks just ahead of the engine. Why take this chance? The most of the people who take this chance have been nowhere and are going nowhere. What will they do with the few minutes it will save them? Death waits on the railroad crossing. Use good common sense. Why take a chance?

George Neu of the Brenham Banner-Press says the home-coming at the old Independence church last Sunday emphasized the importance of a historical society for Washington county. We agree with Editor Neu that Washington county should have just such an association and that Brazos county should have one, too. For months we have been urging some one to take the lead and organize just such an organization for Brazos county, but so far it has fallen on deaf ears. Who will be first to offer their leadership?

GO BACK TO SCHOOL.

The healthy boy longs to be out and doing. His bent is for sport; for action, for the open air. The drudgery of the schoolroom is distasteful to him. An annual tragedy of his young life is the termination of vacation days and the call back to books. Under such conditions too many boys each year yield to their inclination to cut short their school days for an idleness that leads to failure as men or for a premature entry into business life.

Some of these latter may succeed, but few of them would not have succeeded more easily and more fully if they had acted on the realization that the best capital a young man can have in going into business or going to work is an education. They will feel the handicap of a poor education throughout life, however successful in some ways they may be.

Go back to school boys, while you have the chance. It is the keenest regret of thousands of men who have dropped out of the race of life who have forged ahead despite their handicaps, that they did not have your chance, or did not take the chances they had. Don't join those legions of failure and regret. Heed the counsel of your elders, who know that your school years are your golden years, which are fleet and can never return to you, and which, as you use or abuse them, are to shape for good or ill your future. Louisville Courier-Journal.

RESPONSIBILITY.

In the terms of physics, "responsibility" is a "potential" quality that is to be transferred into "kinetic" action. It is a feeling that is highly developed in some people and less highly in others. As a rule the feminine sex has to a higher degree than the masculine. Mothers as a rule are imbued with it.

Every man has a responsibility to every other being in the world, but the greatest responsibility is that due those that are closest to him the members of his own family and his own kind. He who is responsible for life, is responsible for its growth and development.

A child comes into the world not of his own volition and his welfare is in the hands of others. How well he may be cared for depends upon the responsibility of parents or whoever has the task of rearing him.

One may have good character and be good people, though they suffer the world's criticism; but if they also are roundly criticized by their own children, it is probable that there is something fundamentally wrong in their make-up. One can lose the good will and respect of the people but he is not all bad.

Children have often criticized their parents for neglect of them when they were young. Your children of today will be men and women of the approaching tomorrow. Search your soul and find out just what they are going to find in you for criticism. Will they complain that you deprived them of an adequate education because you did not compel them to attend school, or enable them to go to college. Did you neglect something in their physical make-up; their eyes, ears, teeth, or to have some deformity looked after.

Parents, there's a great responsibility on your shoulders. Are you carrying the load, shifting it, or letting it lie without transportation whatever.

WORLD'S GREATEST NEED

Listen, boy: You are going to start to school again pretty soon, and it is the purpose of this article to tell you some truths and help arouse your faculties to their utmost, inspire your ambition, and make you some suggestions that should ultimate in a life worth while.

The world's greatest need has always been real men. It is so now and it will be so in the future. The qualifications of real men are intelligence, integrity, courage, patience and determination. It is such a one who can be depended on to "stand in the gap."

If you have these, begin to exercise them; if you have not, then get them. It is just as possible for you to possess the attributes and capacities necessary to the rounding out of a great and noble character as it is to work for the things which are needful for your physical comfort. It all depends in whether or not you want to. If you so will it, you have the power to change your very inmost nature from the most barren to the richest, just as you can change them from the noblest to the most despicable.

Genius is neither inherited nor bequeathed. Any one can have it who has sense and ambition enough to want it. It is simply a combination of good sense, intelligence, courage and persistence.

If you want the Fairy Queen of Success to wave the magic wand of achievement over your undertakings, you must apply the dynamics of Knowledge and Perseverance, supplemented by energy and patience. When you do this, things will happen, and happen as they should.—Clipped from Dallas News Editorial.

They left Bryan August 4th, the following day spent in Austin that the son might see the State Capitol. Muscle Shoals was visited. They also visited Lookout Mountain, Stone Mountain, Vicksburg and Chickamauga battle fields were among the historical points seen. They returned to Bryan much enthused and happy in the recollection of a most delightful and profitable trip.

Wolves Become Menace Around Hearne Vicinity

HEARNE, Sept. 15.—It has been a long time since wolves were numerous in this part of Texas, but the killing of goats on Dr. Alexander's farm near Rufinich indicated that some wild animals were in that locality. A number of local sportsmen were pressed into service together with their dogs and after several hours' chase a large wolf was captured. There are several more wolves in the vicinity and efforts will be made to apprehend them.

BILLIE MAZY

One of the most respected negroes in Brazos county, "Billy" Mazy, whose name on a check is worth more than many white peoples', has lead a very interesting life. He is a survivor of the pre-war days and bears in his heart a strong and enduring love for his various masters that he has served and especially the children of Steeles Store, for whom he worked several years and who aided him much to achieve an agricultural success in this section of Texas.

W. M. Mazy (better known as "Billy"), was born in Polk county, at Livingston, in a tent near where a schoolhouse now stands, as he states he has been told. He was a slave of Bunk Gee, who owned a big plantation there. This was later divided up into smaller tracts and Mazy left home and began to work on his own hook shortly after given his freedom following the war. He had never seen his father and does not remember his mother at all. He was born only three weeks after his mother had come to Texas.

Mazy came to Brazos County in 1869 and the first time he ever ate white flour bread was in the old Cameron Ranch house at Wheelock. The first pair of shoes he ever wore was a unique experience and he jumped into mud-puddles over the tops of his shoes, even in the middle of the winter and bitter cold.

"In East Texas they called me 'Billy Toe'; because of the fact that I have six toes on each foot," he said. "When I went back to East Texas six years ago to see old Massa Gee, I learned that my father was John Murray and that he died in North Carolina. Massa Gee died three years ago.

"I went to work for Charley Davis on what is now the Moore farm at Steele's Store. I later helped to build Steele's store building. I account my success due to the assistance given me by Homer Smith, who worked for Mr. Steele, and others who took an interest in me. Mr. Smith loaned me the money to buy my wedding suit when I got married in 1877, also to buy the marriage license. This was the year that the grasshoppers left and money was so scarce that if anyone was found with as much as five dollars, everyone asked to see the curiosity. I would then have walked five miles and get a man out of bed to work for him all day for 50 cents and then take it out in trade with sorghum molasses."

Mazy now owns about 800 acres of land, 200 of which is in one tract located between Jones' and Pitts' bridge on the Big Brazos, and is as fine a farm as can be found anywhere in this section of Texas. It is in Burleson county. He also farms the Jno. M. Lawrence place, about 600 acres in all. His sister-in-law, Adeline Jones, owns about 400 acres of land. Each of them have a half-interest in the Jones & Mazy gin. Mazy made his success and acquired his land-holdings by piece-meal, buying a few acres and making a farm on it and buying a few more. Much of his money was made on speculation. The biggest deal he made was when he purchased 100 acres near Batts' ferry for $5 per acre and sold it to William Koppe for $20 per acre.

Mazy is known all over the Brazos Bottom and surrounding territory as a "good nigger" and one who knows his place and is respected for his wisdom.

(By Associated Press.)
MADISONVILLE, Sept. 15.—County Judge Ferguson of Madison county and the entire commissioners' court has been given until Saturday to resign by a group of farmers and business men from over the county. The ultimatum was issued following a mass meeting here yesterday, attended by about 500 citizens. According to general understanding the commissioners agreed to pay the firm $7,500 and a percentage on all delinquent taxes collected.

Gabe Cazell Visits Bryan On Return From South Texas

Gabe Cazell of Ennis stopped over in Bryan today enroute to his home from Victoria where he directed the music at the Victoria DeWitt-Calhoun County Teachers' Institute from September 7th to 11th. Singing was made an important part of the program this year as a result of the good work Mr. Cazell did in the institute last year. Mr. Cazell is known throughout Texas for his splendid work done for the building up of appreciation of music and it is with a great deal of pride that Bryan can lay claim to Mr. Cazell as her own, he having made his home here for so many years.

Gabe Cazell is known as the "man without a birthplace" and while he was in South Texas, visited the site where formerly stood Old Indianola, which was swept off the face of the earth in a storm years ago, where he was born. He found nothing there but a few ruins of the old court house, a number of underground cisterns but not one sign of life on the old site.

Boys Happened To Auto Wreck On Monday Morn

B. J. Zubik, Pete Vitopil, Herbert Luza and Raymond Cloud, in the Zubik auto, were returning from Houston early Monday morning and had reached a point near the Wathuber farm, east of Bryan on the K. T. when they collided with another car parked partly in the middle of the road, the Zubik car turning over on its side and smashing the top and windshield and otherwise being "stove up". The other car, a larger auto, got only a smashed fender and a bruised rear of the body. The car parked in the road is said to have had no light showing and had stopped there for the night. The Zubik car had but one light. The accident happened about 4:30 o'clock this morning. The boys got into town about 6 o'clock, having gotten a ride with a nearby farmer, to whom they appealed for aid.

Lamar Bethea Is Proud Owner of Historic Fiddle

Since some of the state papers are making considerable fuss about rare violins, the subject has been causing some comment in Bryan and Lamar Bethea is exhibiting a violin, according to a tradition went through the Revolutionary War with the army of the Colonies and then went through the Civil War. Gabe Bethea, father of Lamar Bethea, local attorney, carried it through the great rebellion as a private in Co. I, Second Alabama Regiment, under Captain Daniels. At his death in 1909 he left it to his son, Lamar.

FORMAL OPENING PROGRAMS ARE HELD AT EAST SIDE BUILDING

Students at East Side Vote Determination To Enter Year's Work With Determination To Succeed and To Do Their Best—Speakers Talk on Educational Subjects.

The public school system of Bryan opened the Fall term very auspiciously this morning with a formal program at the East Side School and the beginning of regular work at the West Side and negro schools. At the latter a formal ceremony took place during the chapel hour. Conditions seem favorable for progress. Superintendent Madison Hall and a full corps of both high school and grade teachers were present at the East Side program with quite a number of patrons in the auditorium and many of the new students who have been transferred from other districts, with their parents accompanying them. The community's interest and the attitude of the students both bode speak the best of work during the coming months and of a quality that will reflect even greater credit upon Bryan's school system.

NEED HUNTERS KILL SQUIRRELS AROUND LLANO

AUSTIN, Sept. 15.—Adolf Schorlemmer, young stock farmer, living near Llano, is authority for the statement that squirrels have swarmed into the pecan bottoms along the Llano River between Kingsland and Llano in such numbers as to cause landowners to employ men to protect their pecan crop. Squirrel hunters would have a veritable picnic, he said.

The Reliance church was comfortably filled with an audience from that community, and adjoining communities that was entertained and instructed with the program presented by the Reliance community club Saturday night. The first part of the program was furnished by local talent after which the visitors were called on and helped out by the program. C. N. Shealey, president of the club presided and introduced the secretary, Miss Maxie Mathis, who announced the program. Rountree, editor of the Bryan Eagle, each in a few words of greetings expressed pleasure at being present.

County Agent C. L. Beason was then introduced and congratulated the Reliance club on their splendid attendance and interest shown in this community club meeting. He urged that they not forget the prizes that had been offered by the Bryan Chamber of Commerce for the best terracing on any farm in Brazos county to stimulate interest in this soil preservation project and also reminded all of the Howell Company Fair, September 26th, urging all to get together the best they had in cotton, corn, grain and poultry and bring it to the fair so their neighbors might see just what they had accomplished.

M. M. Erskine, president of the Bryan Lions club was introduced. In a few well chosen words he told the Reliance people that the Lions club wanted to assist them in whatever they would undertake for the betterment of their community and they were "here to assist, not to tell them what to do." As president he led the group of Lions to the meeting, the personnel included: Pat Newton, Henry Locke, Jess Hensarling, W. E. Neeley, J. Bryan Miller and Mrs. Roy Danforth, pianist. Several numbers were rendered by the Lions quartette, after which Henry Locke on the saxophone, J. Bryan Pecan Tree Brings Early Crop

County Judge H. O. Ferguson brought to the Eagle office Saturday a half dozen pecans gathered from the tree on the court house lawn. This tree was planted in 1915, ten years ago by Judge J. T. Maloney. This is its second year to bear fruit. While the pecans are small in size, and only about sixty of them. They are sweet, juicy and fine flavored. The early maturing of the crop is thought to be from the continued drought. It would mean much to Bryan and Brazos county if fruit bearing trees were planted. Every home yard should have some pecan trees.

Bryan Water Found Very Satisfactory Drinking Purposes

City Manager J. Bryan Miller received a letter today from the State Board of Health Department at Austin bringing the report that the test on the Bryan water made was that the water is "safe and satisfactory for drinking purposes". Every two weeks for the past month or so City Manager Miller has been sending samples of the Bryan water to the department for tests and it is gratifying to the people of Bryan to know that the water meets all requirements satisfactorily for drinking purposes. The town that can boast of plenty of good drinking water is fortunate indeed.

Rainfall Over the Week-End Was Not Very Large

The general rains over the week-end were not so heavy in Bryan and vicinity as they were in other sections, particularly with reference to Hempstead, Waller and Houston where a good precipitation was enjoyed. The standard gauge maintained by the Eagle Printing Company registered Sunday's rain at .06 while College reported it as .33. The Saturday rain for Bryan in the two days was 1.37 and for College 1.08.

Reports received at the Eagle are that roads were rendered very slick by the light fall and a number of cars skidded into the ditch. One turned over Sunday afternoon near the Wathburn place on the Wellborn road, it is said, and parties returning from Houston at an early hour this morning say they found cars in the ditch or that had just gotten out of the ditch, at point along the road.

A. D. Jackson's Sister Died At Dallas Today

Mrs. W. H. Morrison of Big Springs, aged 46, died this morning at the Texas Baptist Memorial Sanitarium at Dallas, following an illness of about two months during which time she has suffered a series of operations. Mrs. Morrison, who is a sister of A. D. Jackson, publicity director of the Experiment Station, A. and M. College of Texas, was born in Crenshaw county, Alabama in 1879 and came to Texas with her parents in 1893, locating in Wood county. She taught school for 9 years and was then married to Judge W. H. Morrison of Big Springs where they have made their home ever since.

She is survived by her husband, three children: Walter, Harmon, Jr., and Pauline; one sister: Mrs. G. W. Reed of Mineola; and four brothers: A. D. Jackson of College Station; Charles F. and Grover C. Jackson of Crystal City and John C. Jackson of Beaumont; also by her parents: Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Jackson of Crystal City.

Relatives and friends by the hundreds mourn her death, Judge and Mrs. Morrison having had an unusually large circle of close friends. Dozens of friends called at hospital at Dallas daily or wrote to inquire of her progress. However, the end was not unexpected as all realized that she had not long to live. Mr. Jackson's many friends extend deepest sympathy in his sorrow.

CLASS VISITS ORPHANAGE AT ITASCA, TEXAS

Miss Wesa Weddington and her Sunday school class from the Presbyterian Sunday school spent Sunday at Itasca Presbyterian Orphanage, where they visited with the little girl, Lottie Mallard, who this class of girls have adopted as their own to love and care for. Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Goolsby also went along with the class, and the party left Bryan in two cars, about 4 o'clock Sunday morning. Those of the class who went were: Misses Aline, Mavis and Elizabeth Brogdon, Lila Graham Bryan, Louise Weddington, Mary, Patti and Vada Tucker, Mildred Salley. After spending the day most delightfully at the Home in Itasca, the party left about 4 p. m. on their return trip. The return was not so pleasant and delightful as the going trip had been, for a long over-due rain came down as a cloud burst, and the road became a mud puddle, and it looked for a while like they perhaps would have to stop over somewhere for the night. At 9 o'clock, however, they skidded into Marlin, and thoroughly enjoyed a good supper, and at 9:30 left Marlin for Bryan. They arrived here at 4:30 o'clock Monday morning after having been on the road all night. This party of Bryan folk declare that the drought is broken at last.

RETURNED MISSIONARY HONOR GUEST

Friday was indeed one of the most glorious in all the history of Circle No. 5, of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Baptist church. The visit of Mrs. Lawton, a missionary to China to Mrs. L. O. Wilkerson, one of the members of the circle was the inspiration for a splendid day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mills P. Walker. They invited the ladies of the Milligan W. M. as guests. The morning was spent in real intimate get-together chats with Mrs. Lawton, each one wanting to know so much and just what and how about the life and work of this wonderful woman. She has been in this field about thirty years—she, her husband and five children—and has just completed a vacation spent with three of her children who are in school in America fitting themselves to go back into this unselfish work. She told so interestingly and thrillingly of their various experiences the sorrows and the joys of their labors in obedience to their Divine call. All of those present were truly convinced that she was true gold—absolutely pure. It has been her lot to care for and encourage so many of those who have gone from our Southland to this field that her praise is heard on every hand, they proclaim her a true servant of God.

At the noon hour all were invited to the dining room where salads, sandwiches, olives, potato chips, tomatoes and ice tea were found in abundance. The merriest of chatter flowed all during the feast. Then ice cream cones were passed. The afternoon held still greater treats, for the afternoon train brought Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Sallee from Waco where they are visiting, for a visit with Mrs. Lawton. They were each one asked for a talk to the circle and a few guests that had been asked in for the occasion. Dr. Sallee was honored with first place and spoke so feelingly of their work and needs in the mission field. Mrs. Sallee spoke, touching the mother chord and stirring up that sympathy all mothers have for other mothers. Then Mrs. Lawton told many of her experiences in reaching and bringing souls to Christ.

At the conclusion a plate of cream and cake was served. We were all prone to take leave feeling it had been so good to be there. During the day each one present was requested to draw a likeness of herself, writing under it her name and description at the close of a perfect day. This book was presented to Mrs. Lawton that she might always remember this circle. A box of love gifts to the two girls whom the circle has adopted was carried by her on her return voyage.

Mrs. Lawton left Friday night for Vancouver, B. C., where she sails Tuesday September 15th and hopes, if all goes well, to arrive at her home in Cheng Chow by October 5th.

Deer Can Be Hunted With Dogs In Brazos

A story in a state newspaper regarding hunting of deer with dogs has created some comment locally and considerable controversy as the meaning of the law.

New Baptist Church Organized Here

A new Baptist church was organized Friday night at the court house. The members previously listed in the Eagle as having obtained their letter from the First Baptist church, with the exception of a few, went into the new organization. J. L. Reese was chosen moderator and Mills P. Walker, clerk, of the temporary organization. A council for organization was selected as follows: Dr. Eugene Sallee, Baptist missionary to China, and guest of Dr. and Mrs. L. O. Wilkerson; Rev. Charlie Bullock, pastor of the Hearn Baptist church, Rev. J. J. Pipkin, missionary for the Brazos County Baptist Association, Rev. R. L. Brown, pastor of the Baptist church at College Station and Dr. Jno. A. Held, pastor of the First Baptist church of Bryan. The council organized by electing Dr. Jno. A. Held, chairman and Rev. Charlie Bullock, clerk. Dr. Sallee brought a message to the new church, and charged the members to carry on work as exemplified in the New Testament. The council required the election of the following officers: Church clerk, treasurer, and board of deacons. Mills P. Walker, R. R. Rush, were elected to the first two positions, and W. S. Barron, Dr. Geo. F. Lee, W. C. Bailey and R. J. Halbrooks were elected deacons. The new Hampshire Confession of Faith, and the regular Baptist Church Covenant were adopted.

A committee composed of W. S. Barron, Mrs. D. D. Jolly and Dr. L. O. Wilkerson was appointed to recommend a suitable name for the new organization.

Rev. Pipkin, Baptist missionary, invited the church to cooperate with the other churches of the association, and distributed among the membership literature giving statistics and dealing with Baptist problems. Announcement was made that a Sunday School for the new church would be organized at the court house Sunday morning at 9:45 and B. Y. P. U.'s at 6:30 Sunday evening.

C. L. Beason Gave Splendid Talk At Tabor School

A large number of parents attended the opening exercises of the Tabor school this morning, which promises to be the largest in its history, judging from the number enrolling when the writer returned to town.

The teachers seemed much enthused over the prospects and the fact that something like 40 transfers from other schools to Tabor were recorded while only three schools are shown, encouraged them to feel that the work of the school is being appreciated and lays the foundation for hopes of a yet greater future.

Furthermore, the progress being made in the construction of the new auditorium is a rising monument to the progressive spirit of the people of the community and the interest they are taking in the growth and development of Tabor as a school center.

County Agent C. L. Beason delivered an inspiring address to the parents and children and while space will not permit the reproduction of his talk at this time, yet it was so of impressive a nature that many expressed the regret that his talk could not have been delivered at each public school opening in Texas this fall. He dwelt upon the necessity of co-operation of the parents, teachers and pupils and gave many striking illustrations of examples of both success and failure, and told of the results of each for good and bad in their effects upon character, the home life, community life and national life.

S. C. Hoyle, editor of Extension Service publications, was also present and made a talk to the assembled children and parents. Prof. W. G. Colson will be the head of the school again this year and will be assisted by the following able corps of teachers: Mrs. W. G. Colson, Miss Hettie Francis, Mrs. J. T. Closs and Miss Merle Minkert.

BRAZOS COUNTY
Boys' and Girls' Club Department
Club Notes and Farm News by County Agent C. L. Beason

Definite Plan Under Way.
In a recent number of the Progressive Farmer, Eugene Butler tells an interesting story of the work being done in Harrison county by County Agent M. R. Martin, through the co-operation of the business men, bankers, Chamber of Commerce, and the civic or lunch-club clubs. Mr. Martin is stressing better soils, better livestock, and boys' club work. On his program for better soils he has enrolled 60 land-owning farmers, 33 white and 27 negroes, to try out a crop rotation project on nine acres of their poorest land. To put over his program for better livestock he proposes to some one community to exchange 15 standardbred hens and one purebred sow with each farmer for an equal number of scrub stuff, the Marshall Chamber of Commerce and small business organizations taking care of the difference in price. To hold the enthusiasm and make club work the greatest success possible, the civic clubs of Marshall have volunteered their services, each club adopting some certain boys' club in the county, and then each member of the civic club taking for his pal some boy to whom he may write an occasional letter or pay a friendly visit, thus further enabling the business men to get a clearer vision of rural problems and lay the foundation for bringing rural people and town people closer together in a common cause. In speaking of this work in Harrison county, Mr. Butler of the Progressive Farmer, says, "Something definite is being done. There is a definite plan to build the soils of the section; there is a definite plan to introduce purebred livestock into the county; and there is a definite plan to promote boys' club work."

Texas and Soil Building.
According to the cotton crop condition on July 16, as reported by Crops and Markets, the estimated yield for Texas was 101 pounds per acre, as compared with the ten year average of 138 pounds. That of North Carolina was 236 pounds as compared with the ten year average of 248 pounds. It would be interesting to study the relative standing of Texas and North Carolina in cotton yields per acre, say some 20 years ago. Why has the order been so reversed? Reports from recent trips of inspection and observation indicate that the increased yield in the Carolinas is due to the practice of crop rotation, and plowing under legumes, and the intelligent use of fertilizers. Why our decrease in acreage production?

Letting Farmers Talk.
"Big Bill" Williamson, state agent of the Extension Service, is very much sold on the plan of the Madisonville Chamber of Commerce whereby each business man invites, once a month, some farmer into a luncheon, or supper, where the farmers do the talking and the business men are the listeners. It is said that the plan is working nicely in bringing about a closer fellowship between town people and country people, and at the same time offers the business men of Madisonville an opportunity to study the farmers' problems, the proper solution of which will bring prosperity to town and country alike. More and more, big business men are lending their hearty co-operation to whatever it conduces to a better agriculture. Why not? It is a mutual proposition, as we all have certainly been taught this year.

Good Grazing Crops.
"Rape and Kale make good grazing crops during the fall, especially for hogs, and they can stand considerable cold weather. They make a good growth on rich land, especially with plenty of moisture."—E. A. Miller.

An Individual Problem.
Farmers are continually confronted with perplexing problems. Just now they have to decide whether poisoning cotton for leaf worm control will be profitable; whether to plow under much vegetation now appearing as a result of recent rains; how they will manage to sow oats for fall and winter grazing and for early feed next year. Control of leaf worm may result in more or less late cotton; plowing under vegetation before frost would help depleted soils; fall oats, rye, etc., would give needed green feed during winter and make early feed next year, but each farmer must decide for himself just what is best.

Conference on Terracing.
The County Agent is calling a conference of farmers from the several communities on next Saturday afternoon, 2 o'clock, to discuss plans for the campaign in terracing. County Agent Beason states that the individual requests are already more than he could possibly get to, hence it is hoped a plan may be worked out whereby more people may get the service. If interested in this work, you should attend the conference Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Chamber of Commerce.

Suggestion On Big Fair.
Who is going to have that best stalk of cotton on exhibit at the Howell Lumber Company fair? Will it be the largest stalk? Will it be the stalk with the greatest number of bolls? It will be interesting to see just what kind of stalk the judges will select. Bring what you think is your best stalk and then take 20 well-selected bolls and put them in a shoe box and try your "luck" on the prize offered for the best 20 bolls. A trio of chickens will win good money, besides advertise Brazos county poultry, a thing we have not done in keeping with the industry we have built. Look the list over and help fill in with what you have.

Irrigation—
The necessity of concerted action in attacking the problem.

Mr. Williams reported that there is some question as to whether the attorney general will approve the validity of his contract with the United States Geological Survey for topographic surveys of the Brazos from the Millican sheet to Waco where the water engineers took up the work for the remaining area upstream, due to the fact that the work was not completed by September 1, when the fiscal year expired.

Committees Named.
On motion of Dr. H. W. Cummings, of Hearne, seconded by Judge H. O. Ferguson of Bryan, President John M. Lawrence was authorized to appoint a committee of five to confer with the attorney general and plead the validity of the contract on the ground that it was made and entered into in good faith, well within the time limit when the appropriation was available. The motion also provided for appointment of two or more delegates from each county to attend the meeting of the State Reclamation Association to be held at Wichita Falls on the 25th and 26th, instant. The delegation was requested to seek the assistance of the State Association in securing the sanction of the State authorities for the validity of the arrangement made by Reclamation Engineer Williams and the Geological Survey.

Enthusiastic Meeting.
Interesting and enthusiastic talks were made by several in attendance, among whom were Warren A. Wilkerson and Dr. Cummings of Hearne; John D. Rogers and Ward Templeman of Navasota; Ralph Shuffler, editor of the Olney Enterprise, of Olney, Young county; Prof. J. J. Richey, of A. and M. College; E. H. Astin of Bryan, and President John M. Lawrence, who presided over the conference. A. D. Jackson, secretary of the Brazos River Reclamation Association, stated the purpose of the conference, requesting the engineers to indicate as nearly as possible what steps are best to be taken at this time in furtherance of the program that may result in harnessing the Brazos in the interest of irrigation and flood control as well as other benefits which might accrue from such a program.

Those Present.
Among those present were: Jno. M. Lawrence, president; A. D. Jackson, College Station, secretary; J. J. Richey, College Station; Ralph Shuffler, of Olney; Norman Arlett of Austin; L. D. Ben. F. Williams
Visits Gauge On
The Big Brazos

State Reclamation Engineer Ben F. Williams, of Austin, arrived in Bryan by car about 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, his visit to this section at this time being for two purposes: to supervise the installation of the water gauge on the Brazos River and the second to attend the conference of the Brazos River Reclamation Association at the Chamber of Commerce rooms here this morning.

The water gauge is now being installed at Pitts Bridge and Mr. Williams was taken to the scene of work this morning by E. H. Astin, to go over the work. An employee of the State Department, formerly connected with the United States Geological Survey, was sent out of Austin a week ago Tuesday and has been at work here on the installation since that time. It is expected that he will be ten days or two weeks completing the work.

The gauge is for the purpose of measuring the flow or discharge of water in the Brazos River. It is an automatic gauge that will record on paper the discharge of the river at all times and this record may be removed from the gauge and kept on file. At the end of the year one may not only arrive at the flow of the river during the 12 months past, but also the maximum height of flood water when the river is at that stage, thus making the gauge invaluable for information and data for flood control work along the river. Such information is indispensable in designing conservation and flood control improvements.

MADISONVILLE PRAISES TALKS AND SUGGESTIONS OF CITIZENS AND OFFICERS BRYAN C. OF C.

The Madison County Chamber of Commerce entertained at its regular monthly meeting with delegates of the Community Council with a barbecue in the Brownlee Park last Tuesday evening. About a hundred and fifty representative business men of Madison county, representing all professions, also many women, were present.

This surely was the gala occasion in the life of Madisonville and Madison county. It was an occasion that each one present will long remember. The impressions made, the new ideas and thoughts gleaned from the great talks by the visitors, has inspired those present to the extent that they will not stop, but by their own inspiration and new thoughts, will impart it to others, and like a great avalanche, Madisonville will forge on and on in her improvement until she will be second to no town of her size in the State, and will be the pride of every citizen of Madison county.

Judge J. M. Brownlee introduced J. Edgar Covey, of the Bryan Chamber of Commerce, as the first speaker. Mr. Covey spoke on the work of the Bryan Chamber of Commerce and especially its work with the farmers and their families. He told of the great rural meetings over the county and how the merchants and bankers and other members of the Bryan Chamber of Commerce attended these meetings and helped make them a success. He also told his hearers how the Bryan organization had thoroughly planted the doctrine of good will and social fellowship between the city and country in his county.

Mr. Underwood introduced Secretary Sam E. Eberstadt. Mr. Eberstadt possibly will never know it, but he eclipsed all his past efforts on this occasion. His speech will go down in the history of Madison county's citizens as Eberstadt's Million Dollar Speech. The ideas, thoughts, suggestions, together with the inspiration, pep and push imparted by this great big little man in his commonsense arguments and his sound suggestions, will cause the business men of Madison county to get a move on them that will give them the goal that the leaders seek. He showed his hearers beyond a doubt that there was nothing impossible and that when and where they make their goal made little difference. All that it took was all pull together; all be optimists; no one knock; everybody boost; watch out for the fake promoter, the fake salesman, the fake beggar, the bunco man; keep your money at home and away from these fellows, and you could accomplish things that you never dreamed of and never miss the expense. Mr.

He referred to the recommendation of the survey commission that gradually the engineering courses be taken from the A. and M. College and given to the State University. He said that this was foolish talk as in agriculture there was constant and continuous demand for engineering knowledge of all kinds and that he pledged himself and his associates to fight to the last ditch to keep the engineering work at the A. and M. College of Texas.

In closing his address he appealed for the co-operation of Bryan and Bryan citizens and the whole citizenry of Texas to the end that we may have a bigger, better A. and M. College, an institution that will more ably and more efficiently serve Texas; and a whole-souled appeal for education in general. He said that he would meet all the other educational institutions of Texas more than half way in any program that tended for their advancement; intimating that he deemed the education of the youth of the land of far more importance than the advancement of any one or more institutions of higher learning.

He was followed by Hon. W. S. Barron who gave some inside "dope" on the workings of the political machine in the state legislature, showing that it was last year dominated by the West Texas force and advocating that we here in East Texas formulate and organize some such organization as the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, to be used as a central medium to let the wants of the people be known to the state legislators. He predicted that West Texas or any other group or section would come to grief if they sought to profit themselves to the detriment of any other institution.

There being a little time available Chairman Humbert called upon Major L. L. McNinn to say a few words. The Major's talk dwelt on the maturity that came with age against the precociousness of youth. He said that the A. and M. College was now entering its 50th year and that it was a full grown man. He addressed Mr. Walton and stated that he, the new president was assuming the management or directorship of a mature institution and one that has made great strides in the last half century. He expressed the hope that instead of changing presidents often as had been done in the past, that Mr. Walton would be occupying the same position 20 or 25 years hence.

Those present were: T. A. Adams, W. S. Barron, C. L. Beason, C. S. Beckwith, S. Moylan Bird, John W. Black, Wilson Bradley, W. J. Coulter, R. M. Danaby, Richard J. Dunn, Sam Eberstadt, E. B. FIRST EDITOR IN BRYAN IS LATE VISITOR

William Lambdin, wife and daughter, Miss Mary, passed thru Bryan in their car Tuesday, en route to their home in Waco. They stopped over here for a visit with old friends, Mrs. H. B. Stoddard and family. Mr. Lambdin owned and edited the first newspaper in Bryan, called "The News Letter". This publication was moved from Millican to Bryan at the time of the great Millican smallpox epidemic. It was sold immediately afterward to Col. Clark. This was immediately followed by the close of the Civil War. Later Mr. Lambdin started another paper here which he called "The Bryan Appeal".

Cotton Letter

(Furnished by the Bryan Cotton Exchange)
Showers and more moderate temperatures were beneficial in the western portion of the cotton belt, but in the eastern portion much of the week had extremely warm weather and showers were insufficient to materially relieve the drouthy conditions.

There was some interruption to picking in the west, and some injury by rain to open cotton was reported, but in the central and eastern portions of the belt picking and ginning continued to make rapid progress. In Texas late cotton made fair to very good advance and shows general improvement throughout. There was some injury to staple by heavy rains, and picking was somewhat delayed. In Oklahoma plants were revived by rainfall but there was considerable damage to open cotton and picking was temporarily suspended. Progress of the crop was very good in Arkansas where nearly all upland cotton has opened though the staple is short, in some places because of the previous drouth. Picking was interrupted in Louisiana but was resumed the latter part of the week. High temperatures and labor shortage caused some slowing up in the harvest in Mississippi. Rain-fall in Alabama damaged open bolls, but in Tennessee the drouth was still largely unrelieved, and the crop continued to deteriorate and in Georgia conditions were unchanged as the crop has been made. Picking has been finished in many districts of Florida. The drouth continued unfavorable in the Carolina's with poor advance in North Carolina and much premature opening in South Carolina. Picking was begun in Virginia.
